

Yanks Reported "Out Of Action" In Tunisia

CANNED FOODS OUT TONIGHT; REGISTRATION OPENS TUESDAY

Don't hoard, but buy today all the canned fruits and vegetables you'll need next week because none may be sold legally from midnight to tonight until the morning of March 1.

Serious food rationing—the first in American history—is starting to hit its stride.

Sugar and coffee already are doled out on coupons. Tonight, unrationed sale of canned fruits and vegetables stops. On about March 28 meat rationing will start. Rationing of butter and other edible oils, of canned milk, and other foods are on the way. Canned meat and canned fish, whose sale was stopped Wednesday night, will be rationed along with fresh meat.

Fresh Vegetables

Another phase of the general food picture finds price ceilings due to be placed on fresh vegetables within the next two or three months, according to an Office of Price Administration announcement—thus leaving fresh fish the only important food group still unregulated on price.

But, returning to rationing, here's your timetable after today:

TOMORROW OR MONDAY:

Count the cans of fruits and vegetables you own, excluding home-canned and small cans under 8 ounces. With this information, fill out a "consumer declaration" such as was printed in The Gettysburg Times Wednesday. This tells how many cans are owned in each family in excess of five cans per person in the family, how much coffee your family had in excess of one pound per person last November 28 and lists the names of each member of the family.

Have Declaration

TUESDAY: Starting Tuesday and running through Friday registration will take place in schoolhouses. One adult should appear for each family, bringing with him or her the "consumer declaration," and all the family's No. 1 Ration Books. Volunteer clerks will hand out one copy of Ration Book No. 2 for each No. 1 book exhibited (you keep the No. 1 book). The clerk only looks at it).

On the basis of the "consumer declaration," the clerk also will tear out of the family's No. 2 books one 8-point coupon for every can the family owns in excess of five per person.

Persons who do not have or do not present Ration Book No. 1 when they appear to register for a new book will not be given a copy of Book Two.

Rationing board officials said they have been told that persons with stocks of canned goods are not planning to make a declaration or appear for their new ration books. If they don't secure the new books they will have no means of securing foodstuffs, clothing or other materials which later are expected to become subject to rationing restrictions.

Registration Hours

Registration will take place at the three grade school buildings in Gettysburg on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday from 9 a. m. to noon; from 1 to 4:30 p. m. and from 7 to 8:30 p. m.

In all other sections of the county this schedule will hold: Schools equipped with electric lights will operate from 1:30 to 4:30 p. m. and from 7 to 8:30 p. m. on each of the four registration days. Schools without electric lights will register from 1:30 to 5:30 p. m.

MONDAY, MARCH 1—Sale of canned fruits and vegetables resumes, but only upon surrender of ration coupons, according to a "point value table."

The "point value table," which is merely a price list of different cans, using "points" instead of money, will be made public late Sunday for publication in Monday morning newspapers. Copies will be posted in all grocery stores.

Each person will be given 48 points to "spend" during March—accompanying by cash, of course—on canned fruits and vegetables, frozen fruits and vegetables, dried fruits, canned baby foods containing fruits or vegetables (not cereals), and canned soups.

HOSPITAL CHECK

The office of State Treasurer G. Harold Wagner announced that a check will be mailed Tuesday to the Warner hospital here and 29 other state-aided institutions. The Warner hospital check will be for $1,562.50.

SEMINARIANS TO AID RED CROSS

Forty Gettysburg Lutheran Theological seminary students have volunteered to conduct the house-to-house canvass in the Red Cross War Fund drive in the section of town lying west of the railroad along Buford and Springs avenues, West Middle street and the intersecting streets. Their drive—like that in all other districts of the town and county—will be conducted during the first week of March. Every effort is being made to complete the county-wide solicitation in one week.

Otto Reinher, president of the student council at the seminary, heads the group of student solicitors.

81 COLLEGIANS OFF TODAY FOR ARMY SERVICE

Eighty-one Gettysburg college students left this morning at 5:45 o'clock for New Cumberland where they will report for Army duty at the induction center. It was the second contingent to leave the local institution, the first group of 27 departing Thursday morning. Both contingents left Gettysburg on the early morning Reading train.

Two special cars were attached to the regular train to accommodate the large contingent.

Breakfast was served the men at the SCA building on the campus by college coeds. The menu was prepared by the local USO committee. About 250 were present. Miss Helen Keith was chairman of the committee on arrangements.

Farewell Dinner

This morning's group of inductees were guests of honor at a farewell dinner Friday evening at the Hotel Gettysburg tendered them by Dr. and Mrs. Henry W. A. Hanson.

Mrs. Hanson spoke briefly to the young men stating that as "campus mother" she felt and realized the strain upon the mothers of the future soldiers of America, and that she was confident that every one would be a credit to his home and country.

The first contingent of 275 members of the "College Training Detachment For Aircrew Students" is expected to report here sometime after next Tuesday to open the new air corps school.

Captain John R. Coshey, commanding officer of the new school, opened headquarters at the college this morning and prepared to inaugurate the schedule as soon as the first contingent arrives. The young men, coming here from Atlantic City, New York state, Miami and Jefferson Barracks are due here anytime between next Tuesday and Sunday, February 28th.

Rites This Morning For Martin A. Roddy

A high requiem mass was held this morning at 9 o'clock in St. Francis Xavier Catholic church for Martin A. Roddy, 64, who died Thursday morning in Philadelphia from a complication of diseases. The Rev. Fr. Mark E. Stock officiated. Interment in the church cemetery.

The pallbearers were Joseph E. Codori, Joseph Smith, Harry Roddy, George Eberhart, Charles Zeigler and Roy Wentz.

County Minister Is Transferred

The Rev. Elwood L. Bair, pastor of the Methodist church at Littlestown for the past year and nine months, has been transferred to Doyleburg, where he will have charge of the Methodist churches which comprise the Doyleburg circuit.

The Rev. Mr. Bair will succeed the Rev. Fred Wertz, who has been appointed to the Stewartstown, York county, charge. He will conduct services at his new charge Sunday. He plans to take Mrs. Bair and two children, Rodney and Judith, to Doyleburg next week.

The Rev. Mr. Bair came to Littlestown from the Lock Haven circuit. He has been in the ministry for seven years. Littlestown was his third charge. He has been attending the Theological seminary at Westminster from which he will be graduated this spring when he will receive his S.T.B. degree.

New arrivals—Women's Man-tailored Suits, all wool, $20.00. Virginia M. Myers.

MINISTERS ARE URGED TO MARK RED CROSS DAY

Letters to all of the ministers in Adams county asking that next Sunday, February 28, be observed as Red Cross Sunday have gone out from the Red Cross office here over the signatures of Norman H. Davis, national chairman, and Henry M. Scharf, county chairman for the War Relief Fund drive.

Recalling the deep interest the church has shown in the past in Red Cross appeals through its "unflinching support," Mr. Davis writes: "Today the organization's wartime responsibilities are unprecedented and it is with confidence that we turn to you now in connection with our 1943 War Fund campaign."

Service to Soldiers

Mr. Scharf's letter follows in part: "The emergency we are facing is known to all. During the next month the radio, the public press and the facilities of the motion picture business will acquaint the nation once more with the importance of the American Red Cross."

"The Red Cross is the only organization authorized and permitted by the government to minister to our soldiers in camps, in hospitals, in prison, and actually on the battlefield. It alone can carry a message to your boy if he is captured. It can go where the Army itself cannot go."

"Our county has been assigned a quota of $18,700 as its share of the $125,000,000 War Relief Fund. Of this quota, $5,400 will be retained to pay the necessary expenses of our office, to purchase supplies, equip our workrooms, etc. To mention but two Red Cross activities, the National organization has been directed by the Army to provide one half million surgical dressings per hour and 70,000 pints of blood per week."

Red Cross Sunday

"February 28 has been designated as Red Cross Sunday. Will you please arrange for a collection in your church or Sunday School for that day, or during the month of March? Will you please inform your people and beg them to give and give promptly? Last year we received substantial gifts from entertainments; these we cannot expect during the gas shortage."

"Adams county has not failed in the past, let us not fail now."

RATIONING OF RECAP TIRES OUT

A telegram releasing passenger tire comeback for recapping from rationing regulations was received this morning at the local War Price and Rationing board office. The new regulation is effective today.

The announcement received from the office of the state rationing officer states that the discontinuance of the rationing of Grade F comeback will permit anyone, including the operators of light trucks, to have their own tires recapped with passenger type comeback without authorization of the local rationing boards.

The change however does not permit the exchange of recappable carcasses for tires recapped with passenger type comeback except on certificate from the ration board. A dealer who is not a recapper will no longer be required to sell recappable tire carcasses to a recapper but he may now have the carcasses recapped with passenger type comeback and returned to him without certificate.

Inventory limitations on passenger type comeback stocks will be retained, the telegram stated.

Gettysburg Lads Meet In Africa

Private Lester Gallagher, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Gallagher, Hanover street, who is now stationed in north Africa, recently met two Gettysburg service men in that war zone according to a letter recently received here.

On January 15 he met Major Stewart Moyer and on January 30 he encountered Private Joseph Eden. He reports all are in fine health.

Large sized Dresses, 38 to 44, half sizes 16½ to 24½. Print and Plain colors, Virginia M. Myers.

Radio service, Baker's Battery Service.

Emmitsburg Man Suicides

Charles Fitz Jr., aged about 25 years, was found dead in bed about 1 o'clock this morning at the residence of Leslie Ancarrow, a half mile east of Emmitsburg on the Taneytown road.

Maryland state police and the Frederick county coroner investigated and said the case was a suicide. A 12-gauge shotgun was found by Fitz's body. He had been shot in the head.

Fitz, who was unmarried, had been employed recently as a laborer at Camp Ritchie but previously had worked in Emmitsburg as a truck driver.

He is a son of Charles Fitz, Sr., of Emmitsburg, and is survived also by three brothers. Two of them, Maurice and Howard, live near Emmitsburg.

The body is being prepared for burial by S. L. Allison, funeral director. No arrangements for the funeral have been announced.

No note was found and there was nothing to indicate the cause for Fitz's act.

JAPAN'S DRIVE IN CHINA MAY BOLSTER POWER

By GLENN BABB

The Japanese Army boasts that it is ready now to deliver the long delayed knockout blow against China. A spokesman in Tokyo says the legions of the son of heaven are prepared to "take all conceivable measures to crush Chungking resistance." That may be propaganda, to hide some other sinister design. Or it may be that the Japanese mean what they say, that they are impelled by the logic of their strategic situation to deliver their full power now against the valiant but ill-armed, virtually isolated armies of Chiang Kai-Shek in an effort to destroy them before the Allies can come to the rescue.

In all events there is strong probability that the next few months will see a campaign in China—or a series of campaigns sprawling in patchwork design over the huge map of eastern Asia—that will have much to do with determining how long the American victory over Japan will be delayed.

Defense Chief Concern

Nothing Japan could do would do more to make secure her greater east Asia domain.

The capacity of General Chiang's forces to maintain the defense that has persisted now for five years and seven months is a matter of anxious concern in the capitals of the United Nations. China has the men but not the weapons. General Chiang's forces probably outnumber the 500,000 or 600,000 Japanese troops in China by two or three to one, but modern armament gives the invaders the edge.

Help from her allies is China's hope but it still is on a pitifully small scale and grows at a painfully slow pace. The "Sky Dragons" of General Chennault—bomber and fighter units from the Tenth United States Army Air Force—represent by far the greater part of that help and they still are far, far short of the 500 planes that returning veterans say would be enough to drive the Japanese from Chinese skies.

Need More Help

More help from America and Britain is on the way but the prospect is that China will have to face the spring onslaughts almost alone. Japan's ultimate objective is obvious, the destruction of free China. The immediate and intermediate objectives of the campaigns now in progress in at least seven areas are less clear but in Chungking it is suggested that they fall under these heads:

1. Tightening the blockade of China's coasts, which explains present local offensives in Kwangtung, in the far south, and Kiangsu, in the east.
2. Maintaining the isolation of China from her allies and erecting new barriers if possible, which is the purpose of the revived drive from Burma into Yunnan, in the southwest.
3. Seizure of nerve centers of free China nearer to Chungking than any points yet gained—such as Sian in Shensi, Hengyang in Hunan, Kunming in Yunnan—in preparation for the final drive on Chungking itself.

There is, properly speaking, no front. In some regions the Japanese are driving west, the general direction of Chungking, but in others north, south or east.

DAVID SENTZ ATTEMPTS TO END OWN LIFE

Shot through the left chest with a 22 rifle bullet which physicians believe must have touched the man's heart, David Sents, 21, White Hall, an employe at the Gettysburg furniture factories, was given a "fighting chance" to live in the Warner hospital today.

Sents was found about 8 o'clock Friday evening lying on the ground back of a chicken house at his home with a rifle by his side. Neighbors, attracted by the sound of the shot, carried him into his home and summoned the Littlestown ambulance, Dr. H. P. Goeken and Chief of Police H. S. Roberts from Littlestown.

"Made a Poor Job"

Still conscious but suffering considerable pain, Sents smoked a cigarette on the way to the hospital in the ambulance and told those who rode with him: "I guess I made a poor job of it." Police said Sents apparently had attempted to end his life but could not assign any reason for his acts.

The victim of the shooting is married and the father of an 18-month-old daughter.

Although he suffered considerably from loss of blood, his condition was reported "better" this morning. The bullet passed completely through his body.

BERNARD STOCK WEDS IN TEXAS

Miss Doris Miers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Miers, St. Petersburg, Florida, and Lt. Bernard A. Stock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Stock, North Stratton street, were united in marriage Wednesday in the chapel of the South Plain Glider School, Lubbock, Texas, by Chaplain P. Joseph McKenna, Jersey City, New Jersey.

The ceremony was performed on the second anniversary of Lt. Stock's entrance into the service, who enlisted in the Gettysburg National Guard, 103rd Q.M., Company E, February 17, 1941. He was transferred to the 28th Reconnaissance Troop February 17, 1942.

The bride was attired in a white wool suit with hat and shoes to match. She wore a corsage of orchids. The bridesmaid, Mrs. Hazel Wilhelm, of Lubbock, wore a blue wool suit and a corsage of white gardenias.

Lt. Peter Joly, Augusta, Maine, was the best man.

Mrs. Stock is a graduate of St. Petersburg high school. Lt. Stock graduated from Gettysburg high school in 1937 and from Franklin and Marshall academy in 1939. He attended Franklin and Marshall college prior to enlisting. He was active in athletics at each school. On December 8, 1942, he was commissioned a second lieutenant and is now serving in the capacity of assistant athletic director of the South Plains Glider School.

For the present the couple will reside in their newly-furnished apartment at 1919½ 17th street, Lubbock, Texas.

Invite Public To Sunday Musicales

The program for the weekly Sunday evening musicale in the lobby of the S.C.A. building on the college campus will include clarinet selections by James O'Day accompanied by Miss Laura Jane Byers and violin numbers by Bernard Levin, accompanied by Harold Hunt. Dr. Francis C. Mason will be the reader.

The public is cordially invited to attend the program which will begin at 8:45 o'clock.

CONTINUE SERVICES

"The Power of Healing" will be the subject of the sermon at evangelistic services this evening at 7:45 o'clock at the Foursquare Gospel church. Sunday morning at 10:30 the sermon will be "The Boomerang" and Sunday evening at 7:30 the subject will be "Weighed and Wanted." Evangelistic services will be continued each evening next week except on Monday.

HOSPITAL REPORT

Mrs. John Heck, Chambersburg street, and John Parkin, Aspers R. D., have been admitted as patients to the Warner hospital. There were no discharges.

For Rent: Five room apartment. Apply Wentz Furniture Store.

Here And There

News Collected At Random

Last Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock, over a large coast-to-coast network, W. C. Storrick, 86, venerable admirer of the martyred Lincoln and one of Gettysburg's foremost historians, told for the third time on the air, of his hearing Lincoln deliver the Gettysburg Address.

The soft, musical accompaniment made Mr. Storrick's talk more impressive than ever. Many in Gettysburg heard the program. Others found static interference too severe to pick up the station.

As a matter of record The Gettysburg Times requested the manuscript and presents it for the benefit of those who were unable to hear the broadcast.

Milo Boulton, master of ceremonies, introduced Mr. Storrick as follows:

"Today hundreds of Americans in Washington, D. C., paused in their war duties to honor an American president—one who led this nation in an earlier war. Since Friday men and women have entered the Lincoln Memorial—gazed in reverence at the great statue—read once again the hallowed words that are chiseled on the marble walls. Beside me now is an 87-year-old man who heard Abraham Lincoln speak those words at Gettysburg. He has told his experience before on We The People, but tonight that story has even greater significance—and we've invited him here once again. Gulf presents William C. Storrick of Gettysburg, Pennsylvania."

Mr. Storrick spoke as follows:

"I was only 8 years old on that November day—79 years ago—when Lincoln gave his Gettysburg Address, but I remember it as though it were yesterday. I was living about two miles east of Gettysburg. My father and I got up early and walked to town. When we got there at 9 o'clock the streets were crowded with people waiting for the President and a Marine band was playing for the crowd. Mr. Lincoln was staying at the house of a prominent lawyer, David Wells, so we went there and waited at the steps for the President. It was nearly eleven when the door of the house finally opened. I looked up and saw Mr. Lincoln. The high silk hat he wore made him seem the tallest man I had ever seen. As he passed me I said, 'Good morning, Mr. President.' He stopped, and I looked up into his face. It was deeply lined. His eyes looked tired and from their expression, his thoughts seemed far away. Then I shook hands with him."

"I remember how strong his fingers were. He smiled—his whole expression changed—his love of children made him forget his cares. I watched him mount a horse that was waiting for him. Mr. Lincoln's long legs almost touched the ground, and made the horse seem quite small. The parade started—and we followed it out to the cemetery. Before the President spoke, the Honorable Edward Everett, the greatest orator of his day, made his speech. It lasted for almost two hours and toward the end many people left. Father and I stayed to hear the President. He drew a manuscript from his inside pocket and adjusted his spectacles. He spoke slowly but the whole speech took him only a few minutes. He bowed when he finished and there was only mild applause. Few people realized what a wonderful speech that was and I was too young to understand it fully."

"Mr. Lincoln said, 'The world will little note nor long remember what we say here.' But the world has remembered. Abraham Lincoln's words have lived on. For the grandchildren and the great-grandchildren of the heroes that died at Gettysburg have not forgotten those words. For the same blood that flowed at Gettysburg has already flowed on the hillsides of Ba-taan and in the jungles of Guadalcanal. These men, descendants of the heroes of Gettysburg, have found a final resting place so that this nation might live. It is from our honored dead, as I heard Lincoln himself say, that we must resolve 'that government of the people, by the people, and for the people, shall not perish from the earth.'"

Oak Ridge Economics Club To Be Formed

Plans for the organization of a new adult home economics club next Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Richard C. Lighter, Oak Ridge, were announced today by Miss Mildred L. Adams, county home economics extension representative for Adams county. Any one in that community who is interested in extension work is invited to attend the meeting.

The New Chester clothing club will meet on Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock with Mrs. George Milhimes. No other group meetings are listed for next week but many club members are expected to come here Tuesday for the annual meeting of the Adams County Agricultural Extension association to be held at the high school.

39 HURT WHEN BUS HITS CAR THEN CRASHES

Stroudsburg, Pa., Feb. 20 (AP)—A Philadelphia-bound Greyhound bus crashed in flames over a 10-foot embankment, injuring 39 persons, two seriously, late yesterday, and a policeman said today that only "luck" prevented a major catastrophe and many fatalities.

Many probably missed death in the roaring blaze because steel guard rails ripped a hole in the side of the vehicle as it crashed, providing an avenue of escape, Corp. Ray Schwartz of the State Motor police said.

Some other passengers smashed windows to get free.

Schwartz told this story of the wreck:

The bus driver, William Ryan, of Philadelphia, swung the machine to the middle lane of the new three-lane Route 611 highway to pass a coal truck at a point about three miles northwest of here.

Skids in Slush

The bus skidded in slush into the third lane and crashed head-on into a sedan driven by John H. Wilcox, Park Summit, Lackawanna county. Then it shot over the embankment and burst into flames as it crashed.

Soldiers and sailors on board immediately helped other passengers from the wreckage.

Cars, ambulances and a bus took the injured, many suffering burns, to the Rosenkrans and General hospitals at East Stroudsburg, and some to the Stroudsburg YMCA for first aid.

The two most severely hurt were William J. Henry, YMCA, Scranton, and William Leek, 51, Olyphant. Both received burns and are in serious condition.

Eight others confined in hospitals were Frank Prorock, 17, Dickson City; Mrs. Ida Rudin, Scranton; her daughter, Beverly, 12; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Reynolds, Scranton; Pvt. David Morgan, 21, Wyoming; Eugene Hannon, 19, and Harold Donahue, 20, both of Binghamton, New York.

Ryan and the driver of the car, John H. Wilcox, 47, of Clarks Summit, were released after treatment for minor injuries.

Fix Dates For Non-Consumer's Registrations

Institution users of coffee, sugar and processed foods will register at the local rationing board March 1 to 10, using form R-1307. This registration will be operated under general rationing letter 5. The board will announce the date the necessary forms will be available here.

Industrial users of processed foods will register at the local board from March 1 to 10 on form R-1308. This form has not yet been received by the board.

Retail stores must secure the form titled: "Official Table of Point Values for Processed Foods," from their local post office. Retailers will secure gummed coupon sheets R-120 from the local board.

Retailers will register from April 1 to April 10th at the local board on form R-1302. After March 1st, retailers must receive ration points for all processed foods which they sell or otherwise transfer.

All wholesalers must register between April 1st and 10th, on form R-1310, by mailing this form to the Office of Price Administration, c-o Bureau of Census, Washington, D. C. Local boards have no function in the registration of wholesalers.

British "In Contact" With German Army

By ROGER GREENE

Associated Press War Editor

Fighting in swirling dust-storms, Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's British 8th army troops were reported attacking the Axis in the Medenine area at the center of the 60-mile-long Mareth line in southern Tunisia today, while in the north the Germans and Italians were said to have resumed offensive operations.

Simultaneously, a bulletin from Allied headquarters announced that Allied forward troops in the Ousseltia valley had been withdrawn.

The valley, scene of bitter sporadic fighting for many weeks, lies between mountain chains extending 50 miles southwest of the Axis base at Pont Du Fahs.

"Out of Action"

Coupled with other adjustments, the latest withdrawal suggested a wide realignment of the Allied front as a result of the new 66-mile-deep Axis salient carved into the center near the Algerian frontier at Feriana.

With American armored forces temporarily knocked out of action it appeared likely that Rommel was speeding his tanks south to meet the British 8th army threat against the Mareth line.

British headquarters said Gen. Montgomery's forces were "in contact" with the enemy in the Medenine sector—the first mention of ground troop fighting there for several days—while 8th army guns continued to blast the Mareth works in preparation for a breakthrough.

"In the southern sector, our patrols were in contact with the enemy north of Fom Tahahouine," the British communiqué said.

Boche Lose Island

Fom Tahahouine, whose capture was announced by the British yesterday, lies 30 miles below Medenine at the southern flank of the Mareth fortifications.

In another strategic development, a Reuters (British news agency) correspondent with the 8th army reported that British troops had driven Axis forces off Djaria Island, in the Gulf of Gabes just above the Mareth line.

If true, this would provide a sharp flanking threat to the north end of the Mareth works.

INDUCTEES MAY RETAIN JOBS

Harrisburg, Feb. 20 (AP)—Changes in occupations are still within the discretion of individual registrants state Selective Service headquarters advised local draft boards in pointing out boards now lack authority to direct such changes in activities.

Col. B. P. Evans, acting director, issued the warning after he said some boards ordered registrants to report "to specific industrial employers in order that they may be transferred from unessential to essential work."

"That is a matter entirely within the discretion of each individual registrant," explained Col. Evans, adding boards "do have authority to advise registrants of their right to register with the U.S. Employment Service."

Make Change Plans

Pointing out that national headquarters issued a directive Jan. 30 listing non-deferrable occupations and activities, Col. Evans declared that "on April 1,—and not before—local boards shall reclassify all registrants engaged in one of the non-deferrable activities or occupations into 1-A, irrespective of dependency."

However, the acting director advised registrants who now are in one of the non-deferrable groups to "make plans now for transferring to an activity or occupation which is not on the non-deferrable list."

He also declared no registrant classified as 3-B as a result of a change in occupation "gains any assurance of deferment beyond the point when it becomes necessary to induct men who have the same status which he has."

LIST MANY TO MANAGE PHILS

Philadelphia, Feb. 20 (AP)—Seven major league veterans—among them Bill Dickey, Pepper Martin and Lefty O'Doul—were reported being considered today for Hans Lobert's job as manager of the National league Phils as the baseball world awaited a formal announcement that William D. Cox, 33-year-old New York sportsman, had taken over the collar dwellers' franchise.

A reliable source said a list suggested to Cox also included Bucky Harris, desposed manager of the Washington Senators; Bing Miller, former Philadelphia Athletics outfielder; Davey Bancroft, shortstop on the Phils' only pennant winning team in 1915; and Mickey Cochrane, one-time A's catcher now a lieutenant in the Navy.

The source said Cox was likely to retain Lobert himself as coach, along with Chuck Klein, coach for several seasons.

May Get Club Today

Earlier it had been reported that Cox had arranged tentatively to come here today to take over the franchise from Ford Frick, president of the National league, which bought up the Phils stock Thursday in a forced sale, ending the debt-ridden 10-year reign of Gerald P. Nugent.

Cox, former New York university and Yale University baseball player and long-time fan, last night mentioned O'Doul, manager of the San Francisco Seals; Martin, boss of the Rochester Red Wings, and Dickey, Yankees catcher, as men who might make good major league managers.

WILSON LOSES TO ROBINSON

By SID FEDER

New York, Feb. 20 (AP)—California Jackie Wilson didn't make any mistake in showing up at Madison Square Garden last night, although it's a matter for argument as to whether the $10,000 or so he got for turning up was worth the thumping he absorbed from Ray Robinson.

But he made several other mistakes in the course of the evening's best-busting. And the chief one of these cost him the fight as well as an assortment of lumps and bumps from the belts on the whippers he received—at no extra cost.

This slight error was in trying to trade long-range artillery with the Harlem Sugar man at odd moments during the ten rounds. Particularly in the fourth round, Robinson floored Sergeant Jackie for a nine-count in the fourth round, and hit him with everything but the hot-dog hawker.

As a matter of fact, most of the 16,336 customers, who contributed $47,883 to the packet, wondered how any one guy could take the punishment Wilson did. Or, as Referee Frankie Fullam wondered when the taffy-pull was over, "I don't know what was keeping him on his feet."

PAYROLL INCREASES

Philadelphia, Feb. 20 (AP)—The Lehigh Navigation and Coal company's January payroll totaled $887,062, or $163,787 more than in January, 1942. Vice President Evan Evans reported. He added that Saturday work, calling for time and a half pay, was not in effect most of the month.

MAN, DAUGHTER DIE IN BLAZE

Pittsburgh, Feb. 20 (AP)—Stanton S. Hertz, 43, vice president of the Copperwell Steel company, and a daughter, Alice, 13, died today and his wife and another daughter were injured as fire swept their home here.

Fire Capt. W. H. Thompson said the wife, Mrs. Lorine Hertz, 46, and the other daughter, Lois, 15, were injured when they leaped from a second floor. The bodies of Hertz and the younger daughter were found near a closed window in a second floor bedroom.

Thompson said the victims were apparently trapped upstairs when the fire, which started in a first floor library, spread to a stairway cutting off access to the first floor.

At Montefiore hospital, Mrs. Hertz was reported suffering from third degree burns and a fractured leg. Lois received a back injury.

Death

Mrs. Ethel Krumrine

Funeral services will be held this afternoon for Mrs. Ethel M. Schaffer Krumrine, who died Tuesday at her home in York at the age of 49 years. Death, attributed to a heart condition which occurred shortly after Mrs. Krumrine returned home from a shopping trip.

The services will be held from the Guy M. Creep funeral home, York. Interment will be made in Mt. Rose cemetery there.

Mrs. Krumrine is survived by her husband and two sons, Richard A. Krumrine, a member of the Canadian Army stationed somewhere in England, and Howard H. Krumrine, Harrisburg; two daughters, Mrs. Nellie H. Trone, York, and Faith L. Krumrine, at home; three grandchildren; one brother, Harold Schaffer, Mansfield, O., and six sisters: Mrs. Verna Smith, Lexington, O.; Mrs. Helen Snyder, Mt. Geleard, O.; Mrs. Lawrence Schaffer, Johnsville, O.; Mrs. Otto Schaffer, Gambler, O.; Mrs. Maud Addiesperger, Mansfield, O., and Mrs. Catherine Smith, Sandusky, O., and two sisters-in-law, Mrs. Richard Adams, East King street, and Miss Carrie Krumrine, Cemetery street, both of Littlestown.

NO CHANGES IN MOTOR POLICE

Harrisburg, Feb. 20 (AP)—Col. C. M. Wilhelm, new head of Pennsylvania's State police, today declared he saw no reason for any drastic changes in the celebrated constabulary at this time.

"We are going to continue to carry out the laws as prescribed and will meet conditions as we find them," asserted the 71-year-old commissioner.

Some slight revision in the present setup may be necessary, however, due to the loss of 200 men to the armed forces, leaving only 1,233, he said, adding:

"Traffic has decreased on the highways due to lack of gasoline and the ban on pleasure driving, but has increased in the vicinity of war plants."

Traffic Changes

"That will mean some switching in traffic control, resulting in a reduction of men on the main highways and the placing of more at strategic points where there is congestion."

While the force is depleted "it is not crippled," declared the commissioner. He said police work has not slackened. Major crimes have dropped some since the war but Col. Wilhelm noted "little reduction in petty crimes and a slight increase in juvenile crimes."

The new commissioner, a member of the original state police organized in 1905, was promoted from a deputyship last month to succeed Col. Lynn G. Adams who built the law enforcement agency to fame. Governor Martin has indicated he will have a special job for Adams later.

Fairfield

Fairfield—Mr. and Mrs. Sterling M. Dutterer, York, spent the week-end with Mrs. Dutterer's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Preston Weikert.

PFC Wayne Criswell, Lancaster, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Myles Deardorff.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Knox were week-end guests of Mrs. Knox's sister, Mrs. Jesse Dunkle, Harrisburg.

Miss Helen McClellan spent Saturday in Harrisburg.

The freshman class of Fairfield high school and guests held a Valentine party Friday evening in the Community hall.

The Missionary society of the Lower Marsh Creek Presbyterian church held its regular meeting Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. George Neely.

The NCOW of St. Mary's church held its February meeting Friday evening in the church basement. The president, Mrs. Joseph Cool, presided.

Washington, Feb. 20 (AP)—The House Military Affairs committee today went on record—apparently for the benefit of local draft boards—as opposed to general drafting of family men, and termed such a policy injurious to the nation's welfare.

In a formal report of the reasons why it approved the Kilday bill to give family men draft deferment priorities and to put draft quotas on a state-wide basis, the committee expressed belief that "it would be injurious to the welfare of our country to have local draft boards feel that men with families can be freely inducted into the armed services."

The report asserted that "many local boards throughout the country, due to confusion and difference of opinion in the construction of the rules and regulations adopted by the (Selective Service) bureau have been inducting large numbers of men into the armed forces with little regard for the number of dependents, particularly in relation to men who are the heads of families."

Farmers' Market May Be Changed

Members of the Gettysburg Market Growers' association met this morning at 10 o'clock with Luther I. Sachs, owner of the building in which the Farmers' Market has been conducted along Race Horse alley for the last seven years, to discuss arrangements under which the market could be moved into the vacant store room in the Sachs building on York street, formerly occupied by Trimmer's five and ten cent store.

Ray J. Sponseller, president of the market men, said that the farmers have been offered use of the main storeroom, or a part of it, for the market sessions which now are held weekly but which are held on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays through the summer months.

TANK CARS DERAILLED

Pittsfield, Pa., Feb. 20 (AP)—One freight train backed into another yesterday in the Pittsfield yards of the Pennsylvania railroad, overturning two gasoline laden tank cars and derailing three others and a locomotive. No one was injured.

BIRTH ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. John Heck, Chambersburg street, announce the birth of a daughter at the Warner hospital Friday evening.

Silk Company Is Sold For $26,300

The property and equipment of the Wahnetah Silk company in Littlestown was sold at sheriff's sale this morning for $26,300 to Newell E. Coxon, Paxtang, Pa.

The sale was conducted on the steps of the court house by Deputy Sheriff B. E. Bixler at 10 o'clock.

The sale was held after an execution was issued from the prothonotary's office but the plant has remained in constant operation during the proceedings.

Store Clerk Dies Of Coal Gas Fumes

Philadelphia, Feb. 20 (AP)—Coal gas fumes from a defective stove were blamed by the coroner's office today for the death of William A. Trout, 55, a clerk, who collapsed while at work in a chain grocery yesterday.

Immediately after he sank to the floor Mrs. Claire Hankins, 43, the store manager, asked three customers to leave, saying she herself felt drowsy. She walked out to get help for Trout, collapsed on the sidewalk, and was revived by police summoned by the customers.

Leone said a stove in the basement was attached improperly to the flue.

WAVES AND SPARS Are Urged To Act

The Navy recruiting station in York, today urged local women who have filed WAVE or SPAR enlistment applications during the week to complete their papers as soon as possible, so that they may be forwarded to Philadelphia for early action.

Chief James C. Diehl, in charge of the station, said that selection of volunteers rests with the office of Naval Officer Procurement in Philadelphia, but will be based to a great extent on the information and data supplied by the applicant here.

Women notified to appear in Philadelphia for final interviews will be furnished transportation at government expense, Chief Diehl said, and upon acceptance will be enlisted and returned home to await call to active duty.

Enlistment in the WAVES or SPARS is open to women between the ages of 20 and 35 with two years of high school or business school education, citizenship, character references and good health. Further information may be secured at the recruiting station in the post office building in York.

YORKER IS ARRESTED

Cedric Group, York, was arrested Friday afternoon by Private Carl P. Benz of the Gettysburg substation of the state motor police on a charge of operating a car while under the influence of intoxicating liquor. The information was signed before Justice of the Peace John H. Baschore before whom Group appeared a plea of guilty this morning. He remains a prisoner in the county jail in default of bail.

17 INDICTED FOR OIL FRAUD

Philadelphia, Feb. 20 (AP)—Bench warrants went out today for the arrest of 17 men and a woman on charges of using the mails to defraud and conspiracy to defraud in connection with an alleged oil land racket in Warren, McKean and Bradford counties.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Walter S. Gay, Jr., said the group issued so many "deeds" to oil land investors that it "had more deeds than land," and added that in some cases deeds were issued to two buyers for the same portion of land.

Scores of persons in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York and Delaware lost "more than $100,000," Lay said. The defendants were named in sealed indictments on Feb. 1, it was revealed with the issuance of the warrants by federal Judge J. Cullen Gany.

Gay described Paul R. Neuman of Philadelphia as "king pin" of the group and the court fixed in advance a bail of $10,000 for him. Bail of $5,000 each was fixed for others named as:

Henry C. Armstrong, his wife, Mrs. Katherine Kaufman, Morris Feldman, a "Mr. Clark," J. M. Kneeland, M. J. Jordan, Matthew J. Lamb, Irvin Seasholtz, H. J. Kenney, Howard Pabst, David R. Reside, Henry Ashton, John C. Ott, A. M. Hildebrandt, B. Edward Arnold and Thomas H. Arden. Their addresses were not given.

"I'M THE KIND OF A GUY THAT NEEDS A KICK IN THE PANTS"

I never could save money. The more I made, the more I spent. Always some good excuse for not saving.

Then, along came that Jap sneak play at Pearl Harbor. That made me mad . . . and plenty willing to sock back at them the best way I could. Which, it so happened, was by working in a war plant and buying War Bonds.

Next thing, our Shop announced they were putting in the Payroll Savings Plan for War Bonds, and I started buying Bonds on a regular month-to-month plan instead of on a hit-or-miss basis.

And now, doggone if it hasn't turned out that between the Japs and the Payroll Plan, I've had just the kick in the pants I needed to start me saving real dough for the first time in my life.

It's a wonderful feeling (aside and apart from knowing I'm helping pay for a war we've got to win, or else). You see, I'm putting in $37.50 every month. And that means, 10 years from now, I'm going to have me a nifty little income of $50 a month coming in. Four dollars back for every three I'm putting in today!

And, believe me, brother, nothing's going to keep me from getting that full four bucks back for every three. All I have to do is just keep tucking those bonds away, month in, month out . . . letting them earn interest on what I'm lending Uncle Sam today.

I said it's a wonderful feeling to know that at last I'm saving up money . . . adding to it regularly every month. But it's going to be even more wonderful when those bonds come due 10 years from now. 'Cause then a certain dream of mine is coming true.

My particular dream happens to be a little cabin on a lake upstate. Good fishing up there, and a swell place for week ends and vacations. Well, I'm going to own that cabin, and have the time to use it!

Maybe your idea of what you'll do with your War Bond money is different.

Maybe you'll use it to help send the kids through college . . . to help build a home of your own . . . or just to take a long, carefree trip somewhere with the Missus.

But whatever it is, remember this. The War Bonds you're buying today can make it come true. Just do what I'm doing. Buy your Bonds on a regular month-to-month basis and then . . .

Keep tucking 'em away . . . tucking 'em away . . . tucking 'em away . . .

Just Folks

By Edgar A. Guest

REQUIREMENTS FOR PEACE

Any wife or mother who she's ever hoped to get
more than tea-pots in the cupboard
and a ribboned bassinet;
the stairway trimmed with carpet
and the windows curtained
white;
husband well contented and her children all polite.

For the mothers of the nations were
to write their wishes out they'd tell of little gardens where their young could play about;
the money just sufficient for requirements very few;
the grocer and the doctor and for music lessons, too.

A fire for warmth in winter and a spot for summer play.
And what is termed "insurance" for
the threatened rainy day;
The means for friendly parties and
a gift or two to make,
Just this would keep them happy,
and so little would it take.

Then why must tyrants bluster and the lust for greed and power Destroy these simple pleasures and crush every garden flower?
And why must hate forever slay
with bloodshed, land and sea,
When only love is needed peace of mind to guarantee.

Today's Talk

By George Matthew Adams

IT'S WHAT IS FELT

In the reading of a book, or in listening to a speaker, or even to anyone with whom you may be talking, there is but one thing that grips
you, and that is the feeling put into the written, or spoken word.

If the feeling isn't there, interest at once lags and walks away. In an editorial that appeared in the New York Sun some 50 years ago,
now happily preserved in a book
that I have, the writer talked about
"Words that Laugh and Cry." And he ends the remarkable editorial
with these words: "It isn't the way
the words are strung together that makes Lincoln's Gettysburg speech immortal, but the feelings that were in the man. But how do such little, plain words manage to keep their grip on such feelings? That is the miracle."

Yes, words are miracles—but never without feeling. When Patrick Henry cried: "But as for me, give me liberty or give me death!" I can imagine his whole frame enlivened with an electric feeling that must have swept his hearers into a frenzy of patriotism.

There have been books written
that have far outclassed others in arrangement of sentences and expression, but the books that have lived have always been those that have been imbued with feeling, from cover to cover. "A Tale of Two Cities," by Charles Dickens, is an example.

"Eddie" Rickenbacker has never been listened to with such attention and interest as he is today. Every word he utters is wrapped warm
with feeling. Each word is composed in his heart. And people do not have to ask why. They know.

You cannot camouflage sincerity.
Nothing in this world could build a wall high enough to hide honesty.
We know our friends because they make us feel them. Words of explanation are futile in their presence. Thoughts from their hearts are not in quotation marks.

Words that make you cry also made their author cry. No matter how cold the type may be, the warmth and feeling that formed them never dies. Read that pathetic little poem by Robert Burns
"Mary in Heaven" and you will get what I mean. Feeling keeps the fire beneath words burning forever!

Roosevelt Escapes Death; Mayor
Cermak Wounded: Miami, Fla., Feb.
16 (AP)—An attempt to assassinate President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt was made here Wednesday night
by a gunman who fired a stream of bullets into the Roosevelt party,
seriously wounding Anton Cermak,
mayor of Chicago, and four other persons.

A black, curly-haired man of stocky build who said he was Gus-
tavep Zangara, of New York city, was surrounded by citizens and police who hurried him to jail.
"I kill presidents. Kill all officers," the would-be assassin said.

Youth Has Pneumonia: Kenneth Johns, 18, of Steinwehr avenue, was removed to the Warner hospital in the Gettysburg ambulance, Sunday, suffering from pneumonia.

Valentine-Birthday Party on Saturday: A Valentine-birthday party was held Saturday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Codori, Hanover street, in observance of the fifth birthday anniversary of little Miss Carolyn Mae Codori.

The guests present included Fatsy
and Dickie Cole, Shirley and Delores Sherman, Dickie and Elsie Stauffer,
Mary Catherine and Frances Heitzel,
Mary Kathryn and Dorothy Mae Shelter, Kathryn Jacobs, Peggy and Doris Anne Ramer and Jean and Chickie Codori.

House Passes Repeal Bill; Up to States: Washington, D. C., Feb. 20
(AP)—The thirteen-year-old constitutional amendment for national prohibition went back to the states
for a new decision today on a 289
to 121 vote in the House of Representatives.

Duplicating the action of the Senate last week when it favored re-submission to a repeal amendment to state convention by a vote
of 63 to 23, the House acted before being in session an hour and a half.
The vote was 16 more than the necessary two-thirds majority.

Couple Wedded Fifty Years Ago:
Mr. and Mrs. Allen L. Knouse, both descendants of pioneer Adams county families, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary today
at their home on Gettysburg R. 4, near Knoxlyn.

A turkey dinner was served at noon, with 48 persons in attendance.

High Prelate Is Attended by Six Priests: Robed in the vestments of his exalted rank in the Catholic church, His Excellency the Rt. Rev.
Philip Richard McDevitt, bishop of Harrisburg diocese, confirmed 130
members of a class in the Holy Sacrament of Confirmation, Sunday afternoon, in St. Francis Xavier's Catholic church, the Rev. Father
Mark E. Stock, pastor. The prelate was surrounded by six priests and seated in a plush upholstered chair.

There were children seven and eight years of age and men and women, some of whom had passed three score and ten years. Each walked from the church pew to the communion rail, escorted by his or her sponsor.

Birthday Party at Menchey Home:
A birthday party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Menchey, Steinwehr avenue, Friday, in honor of the seventh birthday of their daughter, Miss Marian Menchey.

Those present were: Helen Keef-
auver, Mary Louise Spangler, Charlotte and Jane Winebrenner, Doris Glenn, Maude Shriver, Dorothy
White, Anna Louise Jennings, Mary Louise Martin, Paddy Minter, Florence Mirisch, Helen Sheads, Janet

erine Lingg, Doris Smith, Phyllis Menchey, Billy Keefauver and Carl Menchey, Jr.

Miss King Is Married: Miss Joh-
anna May King, East Middle street,
and Harold Haslam, of Washington, D. C., were married Saturday morning at 11 o'clock at St. Martin's Catholic church, Washington, by the Rev. Father Reardon.

Couple Weds: Miss Ruth A.
Turner and Ray E. Stitt, both of Straban township, were married Saturday morning at 10 o'clock at the manse of the Presbyterian church, by the Rev. Frederick B.
Crane. They were attended by the

Elks' Origin, Growth Told at Banquet: The origin, growth and achievement of Elksdom were interestingly outlined by speakers at a banquet of Gettysburg lodge at the Eagle Hotel Thursday evening, the occasion being the sixty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the order
in the United States.

One hundred and fifty members
attended the banquet at which W.
Clarence Sheely, Esq., son of the first exalted ruler of the local lodge,
was toastmaster.

Personal: Mrs. Harrison Ball, of Mahanoy City, and Elber Ball, of Los Angeles, California, are spending several days with Mr. and Mrs.
J. McCrea Dickson, Broadway.

Mrs. H. P. Belknap, of York, and Miss Louise Bender, Baltimore
street, have returned from a visit to Atlantic City and Baltimore.

Miss Margaret Peters entertained
members of the Acorn club at her home on Baltimore street Monday evening.

Riding with Russell

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off. by FREDERICK C. RUSSELL, Member S. A. E.

Washington never told a lie, but then he never had an officer stop
him to ask, "How fast do you think you were going?"

Watch That Pressure

So much has been said about
pressure flushing the cooling system
it's apropos to inject a note of warning. The radiator core is a delicate proposition, and if it is subjected to excessive pressure it is quite likely to spring a leak. Such excessive pressure may not mean
an excessive amount of air and water being forced into the radiator but would more likely be the result of normal pressure building up to the danger point because flow of air and water through the core is blocked by an obstruction.
The rule followed by experienced service men is that if water does not immediately pass through the core pressure should be released.
There is some obstruction which is best loosened by putting a cleanser
into the radiator and allowing it to work awhile before trying pressure
again.

Your Emergency Home

A western magazine is sponsoring
an idea that has always intrigued
me. It believes that your car may become your emergency home. The thought that your car may be worth its weight in gold probably hasn't occurred to many of the millions who, worried by regulations,
have perhaps felt like driving the old bus to the nearest motor graveyard. Suppose you were bombed out of your home? Suppose you could not get an ambulance to rush
some member of the family to the hospital? Enough equipment can be carried in a modern car to provide remarkably safe and comfortable protection in an emergency.
That's why wisest folk are carrying plenty of first aid equipment, extra clothing, condensed food, water in vacuum jugs and plenty of heavy blankets.

Wonder If You Knew

That if the engine won't start
the trouble may be due to too much current? When voltage is excessive
the breaker points are likely to burn,
a condition that not only slows down the start but which paves the way for a lot of additional trouble.
That, if the diaphragm of the fuel pump is leaking, gasoline will start coming out the vent holes?
That if the electrolyte in the battery cells drops to a specific gravity
of 1.100 it will freeze at 18 degrees
above zero?

Mechanic Joe Speaking:

"The thing so many incorrectly
call backfiring—those explosions in the exhaust system—indicate that the engine needs attention. This may be a tip that the carburetor mixture is too rich or too lean. If too lean the mixture doesn't fire
properly within the cylinders, accumulates in the muffler and is then fired there by hot gases coming

after it. If the mixture is too rich
it may fail to fire and accumulate
in the same way. Should a spark plug or two not be hitting it off
there will be further encouragement of unburned gas. The same result follows any failure of the ignition system even if this be momentary.

"Valves and valve timing are also involved. Valves that stick partly open naturally allow escape of un-burned gas vapor. Timing that is late will have the same effect.

"Because these muffler explosions
are a sort of delayed action they are known by engineers as "after-firing." Don't say backfire."

One for the Book

Friends of mine who do a heap of winter sporting in New Hampshire
tell me that they have been able to pull cars out of the worst possible predicaments just by using a little ingenuity. Instead of pushing the car when it refuses to get traction on a slippery knoll, for instance, several of the riders jump
up and down on the rear bumper.
They do this in unison, of course,
and in such a way that the tires
are aided in digging in for traction. It's an idea for possible use some of these winter days.

Fire Takes Its Toll

Every time I hear a car owner
say that automobiles are not likely to burn up these days I shudder.
According to reliable reports too
many cars went up in smoke last year. They made quite a bonfire.
It sounds elemental, but the greatest risk lies in not keeping the engine compartment clean. Accumulations of grease are a constant invitation to fire, so get busy and clean up. If you use kerosene as a cleanser, of course, be careful to disconnect one of the battery terminals so as to prevent risk of a spark. Not so obvious is the fact that the gas tank won't explode unless it is empty or nearly so. When there's a fire around its filler pipe
the mixture is too rich for a blowup.

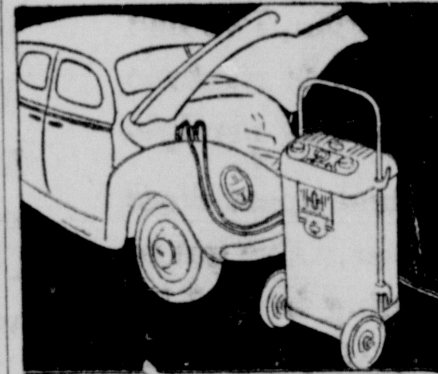

Clockwise for Re-lard

Here's a handy way of remembering that to retard the ignition timing it is necessary to turn the distributor head clockwise. Think of slowing down, retarding, retiring as the minute and hour hands move along toward a later hour. In these days of increased pinging from lower octane gas it is important to be able to make timing changes to fit the situation. Easy when you know how.

Behind the Chatter

Clutch chatter can be due to warping of the plates or to grease

on the clutch lining, but don't jump to that conclusion unless you have first given thought to some more serious things that would require immediate attention. For example, the clutch facing may be loose or actually broken off. Another reason for chatter is binding of the clutch release linkage. Incorrect adjustment of the clutch release fingers also belong on the list of possibilities, not to mention possible
need for replacing the engine's
mountings.

For a Clean Tank

One of my readers among commercial car owners has just put into operation a truck which had been standing for some time. He noticed that there was considerable gummy
formations in the bottom of the gas tank, due to the fact that fuel had not been withdrawn from the tank
during storage. He tried several ideas in an effort to get rid of the deposits, but had no luck with them
at all. I suggested the usual procedure in dissolving gums—using acetone or any of its variants under trade names. After the solution has been allowed to stand for a day or so, drain off the tank and it will be reasonably clean again.

Forgot an Essential

In a long letter from a reader I was told the sad details of an engine's utter refusal to start. The owner went to great pains to check
what he thought was "everything"
but which turned out to be everything but the most likely cause of the balking. Coil, plugs, carburetor supply, fuel pump, battery, starter and all had been gone into thoroughly, yet no starting was in prospect. He had simply overlooked
the choke valve. He didn't close it fully.

car will show marked improvement
in gasoline mileage after this is cleared up, as the mixture is much too rich during the warm-up period.
Q. When I pull on the hand
brake and release it the left rear wheel of my car will not turn in the forward direction. It will, however, revolve backwards. I have to loosen it by running the car backwards a few feet. What will I need to do to remedy this? H. W. B.

A. Apparently one of the brake
shoes jams against the left rear brake drum. This may be due to the return spring being broken or
to the shoe's anchor being rusted.
Q. I am told that the clutch facing on the clutch of my car is badly worn and that it must be replaced at once. I don't see how the clutch could get into this condition. I never slip it. H. M.

Second Lieutenant Merton R. Himes has returned to his post in Columbus, Mississippi, after spending a furlough with his family in Hanover and relatives and friends here. Lieutenant Himes was formerly organist and choirmaster at Zwingle Reformed Church, here.

Income Tax

NO. 43 COMPUTATION OF TAX

For persons filing on Simplified Return Form 1040A, the computation of tax is shown on the reverse of the form and all that is necessary is to take the figure shown in the appropriate exemption column, opposite the amount of income block, and enter the amount on the face of the return.

For persons filing on return Form 1040, the computation of tax is shown in items 20 through 33. The tax is levied in two parts, the normal tax and the surtax. The normal tax is a flat 6 per cent of the "normal tax net income"; the surtax is at variable rates, depending upon the amount of "surtax net income." The sum of the two taxes (item 30) less credits for income tax paid at source (item 31) and income tax paid to a foreign country or United States possession (item 32) constitutes the balance of tax (item 33), or the net amount of tax payable.

The difference between "surtax net income" and "normal tax net income" consists in (a) the amount of interest received on Government obligations which is exempt from normal tax but subject to surtax (item 5a) and the amount of the earned income credit (item 25). Surtax net income is the net income shown in item 19, less the personal exemption (item 21) and the credit for dependents (item 22) allowable; the balance subject to normal tax is the surtax net income less the amount of exempt interest shown in item 5a, and less the earned income credit.

The following example will show how to compute the normal tax and surtax on a net income of $3,500, all of which represents earned income, the taxpayer being single and without dependents:

Net income	$3,500
Less personal exemption	500
Balance (surtax net income)	3,000
Earned income credit	350
Net income subject to normal tax	2,650
Surtax upon the surtax net income:
On the first $2,000	260
On the balance above $2,000 ($1,000) at 16 per cent	160
Normal tax (6 per cent of $2,650)	159
Total normal tax and surtax	579

Taxpayers are urged to read carefully all the instructions accompanying the income tax forms before preparing their returns. If they need any help they can get it without cost by consulting the nearest collector of internal revenue, deputy collector, or internal revenue agent in charge.

Problem of the WIRE CAGE

BY JOHN DICKSON CARR

Chapter 20

"Er—sit down, Superintendent."

invited Hugh, moving over.

Events had moved so fast that he had not time to readjust himself to a new, and very much more ominous, aspect of Hadley. Hadley glanced at Hugh. He glanced at Brenda, who was hastily stuffing the photograph into her handbag.

"Ah?" murmured Hadley.

"The fact is, Superintendent," said Hugh, "the fact is—"

"Yes?"

"I'm telling you this because now—at long last—we can help you. We've found out something. We're on to the real truth."

"Is that so, now?"

"As I hope to live and breathe," urged Brenda, "if you'll only listen to us, Mr. Hadley, you'll have the real murderer under lock and key before the day's over. Chandler knows. Chandler's got a photograph of the real murderer."

"You've made a slight mistake, haven't you?" asked Hadley, turning round to look at her for the first time. "He's got a photograph of you."

"No, no, this is another photograph. Chandler was there and saw the whole thing. He practically told us so himself."

"I'll bet he did."

(Crack!)

Even Hadley stirred at the vicious whip-lash across the theatre. Tex Lanningan's white hat was in evidence again. The Flying Mephistos, going through their ground routine, moved in a quick scariet Catherine-wheel.

(Crack!)

"Hugh, that's got to be stopped," said Brenda, getting to her feet.

"Don't you see? Chandler! That poor man's as nervous as a cat. If the whip keeps going while he's on the trapeze, heaven only knows what will happen. He might fall."

"I hope not," said the Superintendent comfortably. "I want him to be in good shape when he goes along with me."

Hugh interposed.

"Hold on! You're not going to put Chandler under arrest?"

"He is under arrest, even if he doesn't know it." Hadley contemplated the stage. "Have a good time, my bucko," he added with satisfaction. "You had a good deal of fun taking Fell and me over the jumps this morning. We'll see how you like a bit of your own treatment tonight."

(Crack!)

"But you can't do that, Superintendent! He isn't guilty, and he knows who is. I'm sure he's got a photograph of the murderer. Besides, it'll be no good arresting him anyway if you can't show how he did the murder."

"Oh, I think we know that," said Hadley.

To ancient storm-music from the William Tell overture, pitched in a louder key than was necessary, two of the Flying Mephistos were doing a series of back-flips.

"Then how did he do it?"

Hadley spoke almost absently, his eyes on the acrobats. "He walked on the net."

"He couldn't have walked on top of the net," insisted Hugh. "That's impossible. The net was too weak to support anybody; and, in any case, Chandler doesn't do wire-walking."

(Crack!)

"He walked on the net," repeated Hadley. "Not in the way you mean. Now when you began to play tennis yesterday afternoon, what was the height of the net?"

"The usual height."

"Yes. But what happened after the rain had been hammering on it for three quarters of an hour? It sagged, didn't it?"

"It sagged a good deal, yes, but

"You also tell me there was a lot of wind blowing, both before the storm and during it? Yes," Hadley nodded. Given both those circumstances, what would happen?"

It was Brenda who spoke out clearly here. "They're going up to those trapezes. Look at Chandler! He nearly missed his grip on that silver ladder when he started. If you're not going to stop our friend Clarence, I am. Let me pass."

(Crack!)

The full music swept through the theatre as Brenda started to push her way past Hugh's knees.

"Brenda, sit down. Those people are old hands. They know their business. Superintendent, I still don't see what you're getting at."

As Brenda pushed past into the aisle, Madge Sturges also got to her feet. She moved up the aisle towards the dark rear of the auditorium. She and Brenda passed each other.

"Brenda! Here!"

"Sit down, Mr. Rowland," said Hadley impatiently. "If she thinks she can stop that fool with the whip, let her go. So you still don't see what I'm getting at?"

"A tennis-net," said Hadley, "is heavy. And, if it sagged as much as all that, about three or four inches of it would be lying on the ground. Including the weighted cloth border of the underside, the border being over an inch wide? Yes. You agree? If the weather is blowing the net does more than drag on the ground. It flaps back and forth. Consequently, if the sand surface of the court is soft enough during a thunderstorm, the flattened net leaves marks. It leaves a trail of its own clear across the court. You look at that trail; and you never think twice about it because it looks so natural."

"But a man could walk on the border that lay flat on the court, and leave no footprints of his own. More than that—he could jump or spring on it. Starting with a long spring from the side of the court (such as Chandler could manage easily), he would land on the nearest edge of the net. Two more springs, and he's at the middle. He makes no marks, because the trail has already been made for him. That's how our acrobatic friend did his acrobatics; and it's going to hang him."

(Crack!)

"Does Dr. Fell agree with you?"

"That's of no consequence. Fell never agrees with anybody but him-

MONDAY AND TUESDAY

A beautiful girl, defying violence and terror, and a daring Yank, flying and fighting for victory, provide an exciting romantic adventure story against a flaming background of war in 20th Century-Fox's "China Girl," which arrives Monday at the Majestic Theatre.

Gene Tierney and George Montgomery, teamed for the first time self, Chandler is the murderer because he had motive, opportunity, temperament, and method; and because he's the only person who could be guilty."

(Crack!)

Hugh heard that final, vicious lash dimly, because the orchestra was beginning with exaggerated loudness to drown out the whip. But he heard it just as he looked behind him — and saw Brenda standing in the middle aisle, staring, with Tex Lanningan's coiled whip in her hands.

Since his eyes were away from the stage, Hugh did not see it begin to happen. But he saw the rest of it.

Chandler had returned his partner to her trapeze-bar; where she caught and, magnificently, held his weight while he gained impetus to swing back. They were on the trapezes facing the audience, and Chandler's was nearest. He swung and spun, his hands out, towards his own trapeze-bar and towards the auditorium. They saw his face, pale and glistening, with a stupid look under the overhead lamps.

Then it seemed to happen in slow motion. The arch of his body had a slow, easy curve. The extended tips of his fingers passed several inches beneath the trapeze-bar; they lagged at the elbows, but did not fall until he began to fall himself. It was as though, a red attacker, he were leaping out at the audience. He missed the orchestra pit, struck head down across the aisle-seat of the first row of stalls with a rattling thud, crumpled up across it like a piece of burnt paper, and rolled over on his back in the aisle.

He was dead, of course, when they picked him up. Since he was wearing red tights and had red hair, it was a minute or two before anyone noticed the three bullet-holes in his corpse: two through the body, and one through the crown of the head.

are co-starred with Lynn Bari, 115 pounds of curves, crookedness and kisses caught in the battle-scarred East. Victor McLaglen, who tops the featured cast has the rugged type of role that made his name synonymous with hot and heavy action. The burly veteran appears as a two-fisted soldier of fortune who peddles his loyalty to the highest bidder.

WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY

Blending a wealth of entertainment elements into its fast-paced story, RKO Radio's "Seven Days' Leave" presents a brilliant cast and scores of surprises and catchy tunes in support of Victor Mature and Lucille Ball, who star in the Tim Whelan production.

Miss Ball plays the aristocratic Terry Havelock-Allen, New York socialite engaged to an investment broker, and Mature appears as Johnny Gray, a trumpeter in Les Brown's band who has been drafted and is preparing to go overseas, though he would like to marry pretty Mappy Cortes first.

Maroons Snare Division Title

HANOVER FALLS EASY PREY TO LOCALS 49-20

A rejuvenated Gettysburg high school basketball team, halted last Tuesday by Delone, roared back in true championship style Friday night to smother Hanover high 49-20 here before the largest crowd of the season and thereby clinched the championship of the southern division of the Southern Pennsylvania Inter-scholastic League.

Coach George Forney's lads were true champions Friday night as they outplayed a completely bewildered Nighthawk quintet to run up their second highest score of the season.

The battle between Ross Sachs, Maroons' ace guard, and Bill Seibert, Hanover scoring star, was as one-sided as the game. Sachs blanked Seibert without a point while he was in action, Seibert's two field goals coming in the closing minutes on long shots against the Maroon reserves.

Early Lead

After the first few minutes of play when the scoring see-sawed, the Maroons shot out into a commanding lead and it was only a question of how big their margin would be.

Every Maroon player played a bang-up game with special honors going to Sachs and Bobby March whose all-around work in the first half winged the Nighthawks before they could get started. Don Wickerham topped the scoring with six goals with Boehner and Fair contributing nice floor work.

March dribbled the length of the floor to net a close shot 25 seconds after play started. Gross retaliated with a lay-up toss and Sachs came back with a goal from underneath the hoop. Gross tallied a one-hander to tie the score again. Sachs converted a foul and March sent the Maroons lead to 7-4 as Hanover called time with a little over two minutes of play gone.

Maroons Spurt

Varnier landed a one-handed stab and then the Forney-men opened up. Sachs netted a long throw and Fair looped a pair of short heaves before Diviny converted a free toss. Sachs, Wickerham and again Sachs looped goals in that order to give Gettysburg a 19-7 lead at the quarter.

Playing a tight defensive game in the second period which found Hanover without a goal, the locals scored with ease on an odd defensive setup used by Hanover.

Seibert chose to remain at one end of the court waiting for "sleeper" shots while his four team-mates attempted to keep the Maroons from scoring. However, against that defense the Maroons poured goals through almost at will. March landed two tosses, Boehner a pair and Wickerham a single shot before Seibert dropped back into his defensive position. Hanover's only points were on a foul by Varnier starting the second period and another by Gross shortly before the half ended with Gettysburg leading 29-9.

Seibert Yanked

Play slowed down considerably in the third quarter. Varnier opened with a foul and Fair and March also scored on charity throws. Diviny landed a short toss and Wickerham connected on a long side attempt. Fair and Spahr scored on short chunks. Seibert was yanked by Coach Ealy with little over a minute of the period remaining. Wickerham put the Maroons ahead 39-12 at the quarter with a side toss.

Both coaches made numerous substitutions in the final period. Coach Forney making use of his entire varsity squad of 12 players. During the round Wickerham scored twice and Spahr and Utech each once from the floor. March netted two fouls. Hanover's eight points on goals by Diviny and Downes and Seibert's pair.

The Maroons will now meet the winner of the northern division, either Shippensburg or Mechanicsburg, for the South Penn title.

McGlaughlin Stars

Efforts are being arranged to schedule a game for the Forney-men next week to keep them in trim for the playoff contest.

The Maroon reserves also put up one of their finest games of the

Horsey Event

San Mateo, Calif., Feb. 20 (AP)—The horses run at Bay Meadows today—but that's not all.

They also haul the fans to the park; tote the horsemen from the stable to the paddock—and even replace the tractors in pulling drags and harrows over the racing turf.

The 25-day wartime meet is destined to be the horiest event ever. It was given the nod by Rubber Administrator W. M. Jeffers on condition that automobile patronage be barred. Consequently, the only cars on the grounds will be those of horsemen who must be at the scene before 8 a. m. to look after the horses.

San Mateo, 20 miles south of San Francisco, is a mile and a half from the track. For that last mile and a half, track officials have gathered together an assortment of horse drawn vehicles which includes an old Wells Fargo stage coach which has been in several holdups. More than 50 horses have been obtained to pull an assortment of four-seat buggies, buckboard wagons and a tallyho.

School Cager Dies During Contest

Latrobe, Pa., Feb. 20 (AP)—David Carroll, 17-year old Norwin high basketball player, collapsed and died last night 30 seconds before the end of a game with Latrobe high school. Coroner H. A. McMurray said death was caused by a heart attack.

The game was forfeited to Latrobe which was leading 38 to 37 at the time the boy collapsed. Carroll, who had played three seasons at Norwin, was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Carroll of Irwin.

BIGLER LOSES TO CAMP HILL

Biglerville high suffered a double setback in games played with Camp Hill on the Biglerville court Friday evening.

The Camp Hill varsity scored an easy 48-25 victory over Ellis McCracken's varsity. Camp Hill jumped into a 12-7 lead in the first period and sent its lead rocketing as the game progressed. It marked the ninth successive setback for the Cannons.

In the first game of the evening Biglerville high girls bowed to the Camp Hill lassies 31-28.

LINCOLN FIVE TAKES FOURTH

Don Ulrich's Lincoln school basketball team won its fourth victory of the season Friday afternoon by defeating the parochial school dribblers on the old Gettysburg high court 34-13.

Paced by Shaner who looped 13 points, the victors led throughout. The parochial school lads put up a good battle for three periods but fell apart in the final round when they were outscored 13-0.

Lincoln school has lost but one game this season, that the first of the campaign.

GEORGE WASHINGTON'S

Contract with us

George Washington believed in the permanence of democratic institutions. He believed that America would continue to breed strong, liberty-loving men and women who would not let free government die.

The labors and sacrifices of George Washington were in effect a contract with us. He staked his whole life on our courage and integrity.

His spirit can rest today in Mount Vernon undisturbed, for we of this generation are keeping faith with him.
